Longwood College
Farmville, Va

Volume LXXVIII

We all experience many victories and conquests throughout our lives, whether these victories be in athletics, in academics, or in leadership. For the most part these conquests involve great work and sacrifice in an effort to achieve only the highest level of victory.

However, at times, conquests are sought in vain. Even when sweet victory approaches and is attained, the victor remains unaffected by his conquest.

We here at Longwood also seek victories in athletics, academics and leadership, but for different purposes. We strive for conquests not only of the mind, but of the heart; not only of the power, but of the spirit; not only of the body, but of the soul.

So, as did the final conquest come to our Joan of Arc, so it will to these who believe in it and seek it.

Do you remember how you won that last race . . .?

A familiar spot tor Sunday afternoon.

Debbie Fiter and her friends take time from their weekend to share a smile.

The end of the semester rush . . .

Brilliant trees highlight first semester.

Judicial board members Donna Hughes and Melissa Wiggins begin the honor code signing by lighting the candles.

Green and whites give their version of campus life at the orientation skits.

How you flung your body at the start
How your spikes ripped the cinders in the stretch

Rush!!!!!!!!!!

The fine art of "swinging!"

Bill McKaig looks on as Linda Muley is tapped for Geist by Rosalind Crenshaw and Ann Johnson.

Oktoberfest celebrations helped Donna Connolly grin and bear it.

How you catapulted through the tape . . . Do you remember . . .?

Debbie Northern shows that everyone can be a kid at heart.

Geist member Dianne Harwood taps Senior Cam Oglesby.

The Longwood Strangler strikes again!

Don't you think I lurched with you out of those starting holes . . .?

Frank Palumbo, SPE Head Man.

Debi Kinzel chomps on her mouth guard as she awaits a pass!!

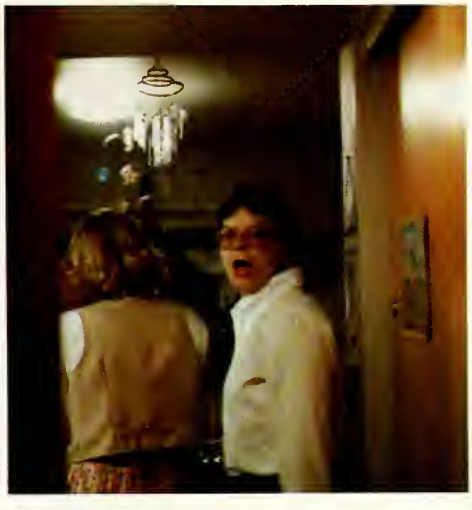
Freshman take a minute to reflect before signing the Honor Code.

I just can't believe what I see?!

Don't you think my sinews tightened at those first few strides . . .

What a group!

Karen Shelton is awe struck.



Paulette, Erin, and Karen attack Brenda as she studies.

And when you flew into the stretch was not all my thrill of a thousand races in your blood . . .?

After a long day, Sally Red-n-White holds up Juniors Debbie Fore and Lydia Hudson.

John Warner makes a brief appearance on campus before going onto victory in the Senate race.

Sororites look on in anticipation as a "walker" runs to her chosen sisters.

At your final drive through the finish line did not my shout . . .

Where is our Judical board chairman when we need her?

Reflections of the end . . .

Green-n-Whites work the '79-81 booth at the interest fair.

Tell of the triumphant ecstasy of victory . . .?

Jill Eacho, Dave Gates and Ann Wyatt do their thing for the Junior Class.

"Gang Green" and "Sally Red & White"

Cindy Moss and her boyfriend enjoy themselves at the Junior Ring Dance.

Dig your starting holes deep and firm, lurch out of them into the straight away

Nancy Wilson is deep in thought.

Beth Wadell & Cathy Chase revert back to childhood.

Anticipation . . .

A lone thinker reflects down on French gym.

With all the power that is in you, look straight ahead to the finish line . . . think only of the goal.

Lankford Mall—In concert!

Rosalind Crenshaw is all wrapped up in a hockey game.

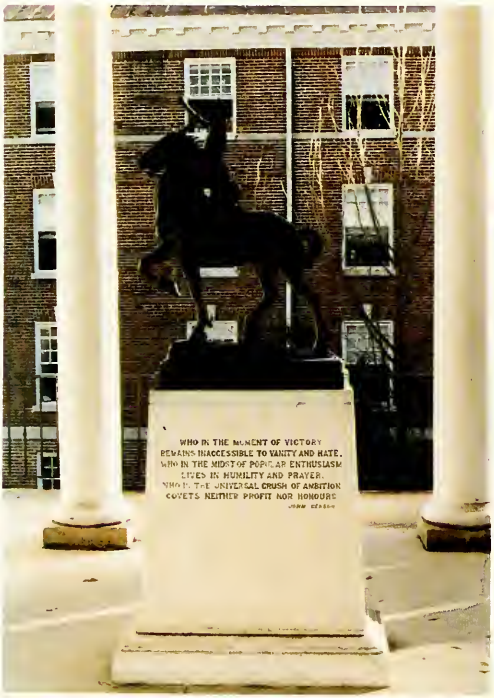
Happiness is . . . .

A walking medicine cabinet?

Run straight, run high, run hard

What a way to end a wonderful day!

Yaaaaahhhhh!!!



Our noble patron saint Joan of Arc.

Seniors Carol Cooper & Donna Connolly await the final achievement.

Save nothing and finish with an ecstatic burst

That carries you hurling through the tape to victory . . .

Hank Dahlman and Pam Bessler entertain with their singing, playing, and smiling.

The excitement builds up for the moment that Angela Ryan has been waiting for.

"Looks like I made it!" exclaims Maria Corbin.

Art

Barbara Bishop
Chairman

The Department of Art at Longwood College is guided by the concept that a student's education must concern itself with creative learning, experimentation in the visual arts, and personal development. These goals are achieved through a variety of different programs and people. The faculty represents a wide spectrum of talent and individual specialties, this helps to give the students a large choice of courses. According to Miss Barbara Bishop, the departmental head, the student input and enthusiasm is a definite strong point of the department.

The opportunity to work within different media while learning composition and design are the goals offered students concentrating in Studio Art. Within Studio Art, students may choose to concentrate on Painting, Ceramic Sculpture, Drawing, or Printmaking/Graphic Design.

In Art History, students begin with a core of studio courses. These courses support a broad, general knowledge of art while defining terms and techniques. The courses within the concentration trace art history from prehistoric days to the present.

Courses are also available in the area of film studies.

All faculty members are exhibiting artists and are well-known throughout the region. Their experience and their understanding of the various art forms, strengthened by their concern for teaching, are reflected in the high quality of education offered by Longwood's Art Program.

Some special events taking place within the department include guest speakers and exhibit programs, as well as a lecture-workshop series sponsored each year.

Business & economics

This program is one of Longwood's most rapidly expanding areas of study. This major prepares students to make the important decisions required of day-to-day business management. The program emphasizes the skills and techniques needed for a career in Business Administration.

All Business Administration majors take a core curriculum of general business courses and then begin concentrating in one of five areas: accounting, finance, management, marketing, or real estate/insurance.

Through the program students are able to participate in a practicum during their senior year. This practicum is designed to give students a full semester of practical experience in the field prior to graduation.

For business-oriented students wishing to teach, Longwood offers a major in Business Education. This program, which is approved by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, included courses in general business and in professional education. Students majoring in Business Education concentrate in one of two areas of certification: General Office Procedures or Stenography.

The Office Administration major is designed for students who desire careers in office management or in supervisory positions within business.

The full range of business areas is covered, providing students with a broad, general base of knowledge.

Education & psychology

Charles H. Patterson
Chairman

The teacher education program at Longwood has been successful in placing graduates in teaching positions at a rate far above the national average. This significant statistic is a result of Longwood's strong reputation and the exceptional training provided students. Longwood's teaching students are involved in a strong, demanding program.

The teacher education program at Longwood emphasizes practical experience. Students have the opportunity to observe a variety of classroom situations in Longwood's Campus School. During their senior year, students are involved in practice teaching in one of Virginia's many elementary and secondary public schools. Here they work under the close supervision of Longwood supervisors and other teachers. In addition, professional modules are taught on such topics as inner city teaching, media in education, philosophy of education, and tests and measurements. These "mini-courses" give senior students added insight into the teaching profession. A program of workshops featuring nationally known educators is offered by the Education Department for both students and practicing teachers in the area.

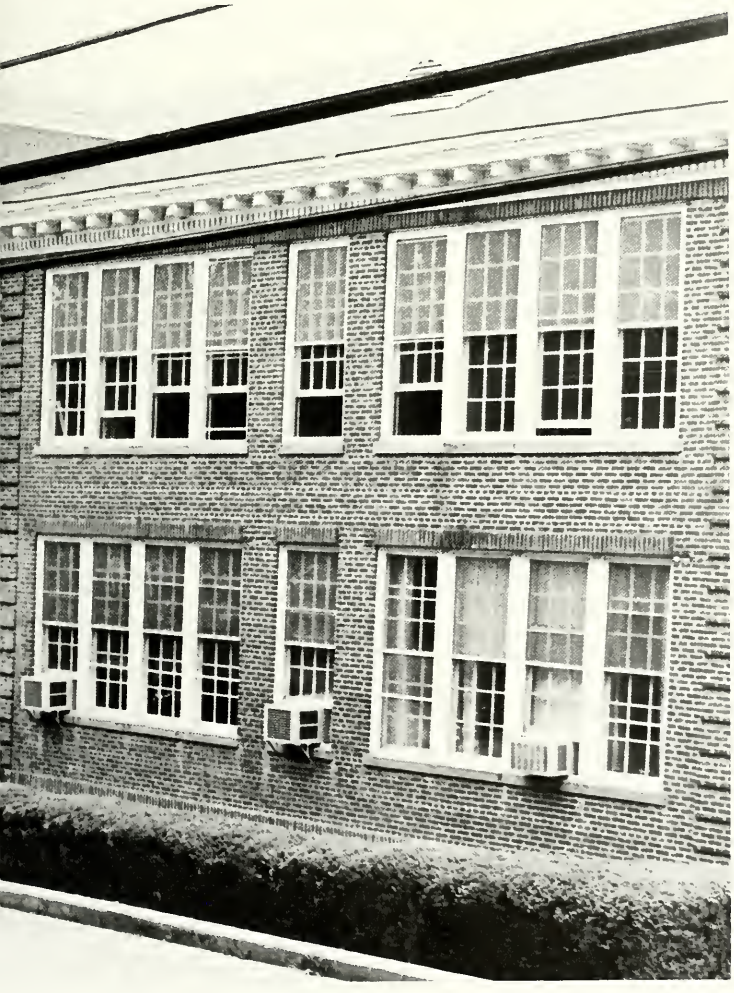
History & the social sciences



Charles Lane Chairman

The history and social science studies are a vital part of the academic life at Longwood. The enrollment in the division each semester is approximately equal to the total number of the student body. Studies in history, government, sociology, and social work may lead to the B.A. or B.S. degrees. With additional courses in economics and geography, a student may select a major in social science.

The history and social science faculty has a rich tradition of excellence in teaching and in scholarship. The staff is quite active in professional activities in addition to their teaching assignments. These pursuits include, research and publishing, production of educational films, actively working in professional organizations and in Virginia's educational system, professional consultants, etc.

Two awards have been finalized in the last few years. One is the Francis Butler Simkins Prize which is awarded for a distinguished scholarly first book in the general field of Southern history. This prize was established jointly by the Southern Historical Association and Longwood College. The other award is the Kathleen Goodwin Gover Scholarship to be awarded to a sociology major who has demonstrated outstanding professional, intellectual, and personal standards and who has contributed to the social and cultural programs at Longwood.

Health, physical ed

Shirley M. O'Neil Chairman

The department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation is a popular, and growing major here at Longwood. Students here may also choose to receive an emphasis in a specific area, such as elementary physical education, coaching, and dance.

Beginning in the fall 1979 semester, there will be a health major available. Plans are being made to start a graduate program in the department; the master of science being considered are: Athletic Administration, Coaching, Elementary Physical Education and Adaptives.

Another dimension for the department will be the completion of the new physical education building, which is now in the final building stages, it will add a great deal to the department. French gym will be converted to a permanent gymnastics and possible wrestling gym. Iler gym will be converted into classrooms. The addition of a new pool, will probably lead to French pool becoming an outdoor pool.

Dr. Shirley O'Neil, the department chairman, is looking forward to this addition very much. Dr. O'Neil is a graduate of New Hampshire University. While she was there, she played hockey, basketball, and softball teams. Before coming to Longwood, she taught English, general science as well as Physical Education. She has been Chairman of the department for 13 years.

Home economics

Ann Sloan Thompson Chairman

The Department of Home Economics offers three areas of study leading to a Bachelor of Science Degree: Clothing and Textiles (Fashion Merchandising or General Clothing and Textiles); Food and Nutrition; and Home Economics Education. For non-majors the department offers two minors: Clothing and Textiles or Food and Nutrition.

Clothing and Textiles concentrates on various materials used in the fabric and clothing industry and methods used in designing, constructing, and tailoring garments. Study in this area qualifies students for positions as home economists in the business or educational community. Professional positions include buyer, fashion representative or coordinator, store management, or positions in the textile industry.

A home economist position is also possible in the area of Food and Nutrition. This area of study includes the nutritive value of foods, meal management, and community nutrition. Employment areas include test kitchens and food service for schools or hotels.

Concentration in Home Economics Education leads to Virginia Collegiate Professional Certification, entitling graduates to t ch Vocational Home Economics Education Virginia and 28 other states. Other profess ial positions include 4-H program leaders and home extension specialists.

Home Economicst positions can involve development and promotion of various products and services of business concerns or can be pursued through the field of journalism.

Coyner Building houses a departmental library, a general classroom, a food and home equipment laboratory, a home furnishing laboratory, a clothing and textile laboratory, a demonstration area, and the College Nursery School which is utilized as the child development laboratory. In addition to Coyner, the department utilizes the Worthy Johnson Crafts House for the Home management practicum and other laboratory functions.

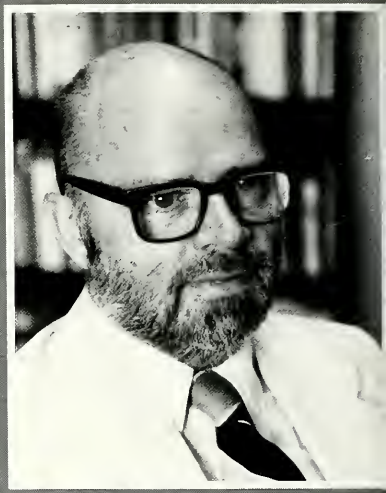
Language, literature & philosophy



William E. Frank Chairman

The Division of Language, Literature, and Philosophy came into existence three years ago. It was created by Dean Carolyn Wells, Vice President for Academic Affairs at Longwood College, along with the Division of History and the Social Sciences, in order to bring about a more effective and efficient academic organization. As Longwood's enrollment grew and at the same time the composition of the student body changed, it was felt that a divisional structure for the academic departments would allow for greater flexibility in terms of new majors and the recently developed programs in minors. Such an academic re-organization would also reduce the number of department chairmen who would report directly to the Dean of the College, thus bringing about a more efficient utilization of time and resources.

Consequently the three departments of English and Philosophy, Foreign Language, and Speech and Dramatic Arts were merged into the Division of Language and Literature, with the chairman of the Department of English and Philosophy also serving as chairman of the Division. A unique feature of the newly created division allowed each department to retain its individuality, with its own head; the chairman of the division exercised overall authority primarily in matters of the budget and personnel. It was hoped that should the divisional set-up prove workable it would be extended gradually over the entire academic structure of the college. Unfortunately, because of budget and personnel cuts dictated by the State Council and by the Legislature, the Dean announced during the 1978-79 academic year that the divisional experiment would be dropped.

During its three year tenure, the chairmen of the three departments involved worked harmoniously together to effect more equitable treatment of the faculty members in the division in matters of salary, promotion and tenure, and to bring about a more efficient use of instructional hardware, software and audio-visual equipment.

Lancaster Library was constructed in 1938 and received extensive enlargement and renovation in 1961. The Library is immediately west of Grainger Hall. Completely air-conditioned, its three floors include individual study carrels, groups study and discussion rooms, graduate study rooms, a typing room, faculty carrels, and a separate reading room for the use of the collection of books, periodicals and newspapers on microfilm. The main book collection of over 172,000 volumes, is available on open shelves to all users with reading and informal lounge areas interspersed among the book areas of three floors. Other collections in the Library include a file of 5,707 pamphlets, a picture file of some 7,316 items and more than 1,738 maps. Thirty newspapers and some 1,208 current magazines are received. In the non-print area, the Library has 1,183 records, 5,742 slides, 1,847 cassettes, 1,505 filmstrips, and 134 filmloops. Also in the Library is a collection of college catalogues, alumni bulletins, and other archival materials.

The Department of Library Science offers courses leading to a minor in Library Science and/or to State endorsement as a school librarian.

Mathematics

Merry Lewis Allen
Chairman

A major in Mathematics at Longwood prepares students for one of three career goals: as mathematics teachers, professional mathematicians, or careers in computer science.

If a student's interest lies in teaching, he can gain the preparation needed to teach Math at the elementary or secondary level. Certification is awarded in the areas of Pre-Algebra Mathematics and High School Mathematics.

As a professional mathematician, individuals may wish to become computer programmers, systems analysts, general mathematicians or researchers.

The field of computer science offers a wide range of career opportunities in business and industry. Mathematics at Longwood has expanded its program in computer science, and students are now able to make use of Longwood's own computer facilities while gaining an understanding of how a computer system operates.

Military science

Bernard B. Hamaker, Major

Military Science at Longwood reached new heights in enrollment and experienced many first's as the program and students grew throughout the year. Academic endeavors were coupled with unusual learning experiences outside the classroom to challenge the individual in leadership, teamwork, and new and unusual skills.

Students were introduced to United States Army helicopters and experienced a bird's eye view of Southside Virginia and "their college" taking off and landing from the Field. Distinguished visitors including the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Manpower and Reserve Affairs and the Commanding General, First Reserve Officer Training Corps, and faculty and staff from Longwood also participated in the activities.

Canoe trips down the South Anna River and James River coupled with weekend visits to Fort A. P. Hill for weapons firing and training, Ft. Lee for Leadership Reaction Courses and orientation tours, and Pocahontas State Park for Orienteering rounded out a varied assortment of exciting first-hand experiences. Social activities in conjunction with University of Richmond ROTC Cadets were additional benefits of "Taking Military Science."

Activities continued into the summer with selected rising juniors visiting Ft. Knox, Kentucky, and new seniors experiencing the rewards of ROTC advanced Camp at Ft. Bragg, N. C. Others continued on to Airborne or "Jump" school and still others on visits with Army units to view military life first hand.

Cadets have worked hard and learned much toward their goal of receiving a commission as a "Lieutenant in the United States Army or Reserves."

Music

Louard E. Egbert, Jr.
Chairman

Longwood's Music Department offers a wide range of programs of study. Once offering only vocal and piano concentrations, the program now has a varied curriculum. Courses are offered in music theory, appreciation, history and literature, and applied music. In addition to individual voice instruction, instrumental instruction is available in Organ, Harpsichord, Piano, Strings, Woodwinds, and Brass.

When students major in Music at Longwood, faculty advisors counsel them in deciding their particular applied area. Students then begin private lessons as a supplement to regular instruction. There is no extra cost for these lessons.

As an additional supplement to classroom instruction, workshops are held on a regular basis. Nationally known figures are invited to the campus for recitals or lectures concerning their particular specialty. Afterwards, each student has the opportunity to perform for the guest, who then gives a critique of each performance.

Each year the music majors stage several major productions, including a unique Christmas Renaissance Dinner, with period music and costumes. Extensive performing experience is available through the Concert Band, the Camerata Singers, and the Longwood Choir which recently completed a European tour.

Students who wish to teach Music at the elementary or secondary level, or in private practice find excellent preparation through the Music Education program at Longwood. This program included courses in general music as well as professional education. Students who successfully complete this program receive the Collegiate Professional Certificate.

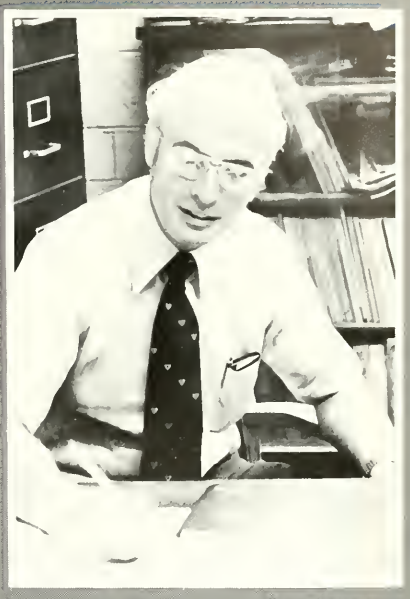
Natural science



Marvin W. Scott Chairman

The Department of Natural Sciences offers a wide selection of programs designed to provide the foundation for exciting careers in the sciences.

This year Dr. Raymond Fawcett designed and spearheaded the engineering co-op-programs with Old Dominion University and Georgia Tech. Miss Anita Lynn Glover, a physics major, was selected for an undergraduate research appointment at Argonne National Laboratory for the spring semester.

Miss Beth Thompson received the 1979 Edith Stevens Award which is given annually to an outstanding junior biology major. Miss Robin Stark served as the southern regional president of Beta Beta Beta, a biological honor society. Miss Julianna Byrd Worsham, a biology major, captured the first of Miss Longwood of 1979 with her presentation of "Wouldn't it be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady".

Mrs. Vera B. Remsburg, a former biology major and teacher at Longwood, will serve as President of the Virginia Academy of Science this year. Dr. Wayne Tinnell served as Chairman of the Microbiology section of the Academy. Dr. Marvin Scott, served on the Executive Committee of the Virginia Junior Academy and was the Chief Judge for the 37th Annual Meeting. Dr. Alton Harvill, Jr., co-author of the Virginia Flora part one, is well into the second part which deals with the distribution of the flowering plants.

Music, dancing, jazz and parties-all with a New Orleans flair - were the order of the weekend. The Mardi Gras celebration, sponsored by the Student Union, is fast becoming one of the two largest events of the second semester, rivaled only by Spring Weekend in April. The reason for the growing popularity can easily be attributed to the large variety of special events which cater to a wide range of interest.

Musical talent was running high during the weekend. Beginning the four-day festivities was pianist Nina Kahle. Other musical genres were also available, such as the fiddle, harmonica and country sounds of singer-musician Mike Cross. Saturday night provided the beautiful melodies of JANICE during the mixer in the lower dining hall. The JAMES WALSH GYPSY BAND and THE FLYING BURRITO BROTHERS filled Sunday night with concert sounds.

The Student Union also sponsored the 'Nightly Blues and Jazz, Ltd,' and the Virginia State College Jazz Ensemble and Combo bands. A touch of culture was added to the weekend by the Dayton Ballet Company's performance.

Overall, the total combination at various events totaled to provide a most enjoyable and memorable weekend.

A bit of sixteenth century culture could be found in Blackwell dining hall on December 1, 2, and 3; the Department of Music brought this era back again by sponsoring The Renaissance Christmas Dinner. It began with the Camerata Singers singing madrigals in the Rotunda to the expectant crowd. Then all went into the dining hall for a delicious dinner. The Camerata Singers divided into groups and sang many Christmas carols to the diners. Later they came together as a group to entertain the audience with singing and dancing. At times during the evening, a recorder consort was featured. Toward the end of the dinner, the Cameratas and the audience joined to sing some well known Christmas carols. All too quickly, the entertainers left and along with them, the 16th century spirit.

Lynette Hudson and Larry Smith promenade in to start off an exciting evening.

Folklorica de Mexico

The Longwood College Visiting Artist Series was established to bring the traditional performing arts to the campus so the student body would have the opportunity to expand their experiences while in college, within this area.

Each year the program is chosen to have at least one program representing music, dance, and drama. Programs are chosen in the Spring of the preceding year by a committee of twelve students.

This year's Artist Series consists of five programs beginning with Mark Twain — Trouble Begins At Eight. This was a one-man dramatic presentation that enabled the viewer to step back in time and view Twain during two periods of his life. It was very easy to become involved in this program because of the portrayal as exhibitied by actor Jack Nelson.

The second program was presented by the world renowed Claude Kipnis Mime Theatre. This quality performance enabled the viewer to experience a whole new world of movement in the combination of theatre and dance that mime represents.

The first program presented during the second semester was the Dayton Ballet — presented in conjunction with the Student Union's "Mardi Gras Weekend." A variety of dance styles, as exhibited by the Dayton Ballet, provided an entertaining evening that joined with other weeking activities to present a potpourri of performing arts.

Mary Evelyn Bruce sang her way into the hearts of many students on a cold snowy night in the second program of the second semester.

The final performance of enthusiasm was received by our students when the movement, color, and sound of Mexico came to us via the Gran Folklorico de Mexico is "Fiesta Folklorico."

Geist bloodmobile and, Here's . . . Cindy Morris, the M.C. for the show: "Let's take Your Blood!"

Kim Garber maintains control!

Teresa Ware keeps all at ease with her cheerful smile.

Even Count Dracula couldn't have collected as much blood as the Geist bloodmobile did on February 12-13. Students and faculty donated 246 pints of accepted blood and many more worked as typists and in the canteen. The quota was 250 pints.

Geist and the American Red Cross appreciated all those who came in and rolled up their sleeves, trembling and quaking, to give blood and to all others who helped.

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and the freshman class won in the competition by getting the most people to participate.

". . . When I'm feeling sad, I simply remember my favorite things and then I don't feel so bad!"

PEOPLE

SENIORS

Captions are clockwise starting in the upper left hand corner . . . . . "Ah-so" sais Sue Delong . . . . Muffin Ames and Jim Crites, senior ushers for Oktoberfest, do a little "shot-ich" in front of supportive on-lookers . . . Ken Neimo tells the world to "Move over, I am coming through!!" . . . Is it the three Mousekateers, or maybe it's the Mod Squad!! (made up by Dianne Harwood Petie Grigg and Rosalind Crenshaw .) . . Pam Bessler Sings her heart out for her senior recital.

Wanda Petersen loves the one-on-one situation!

There's the ball, it's just a matter of picking it up!!

What is fiercer than 29 Savage Indians with tommahawks in their hands? Give up? Twenty-nine longwood lacrosse players with lacrosse sticks in their hands!

The young team worked hard perfecting their skills and learning the fine points of the game, under the direction of coach Dee McDonough and assistant Terri Prodoehl.

The season was quite rough-(as well as the game itself!) having two and three games per week. The team fought hard and gave it their best up through state tournaments, and even through to Nationals!

There was never the lack of a challenge-for each game produced a new one, but that challenge was always attempted and met although it was not always victorious. The main thing learned this year was not winning, nor was it losing, but much more-it was learning to love and enjoy the game of lacrosse.

Many thanks to a great manager-Mary Slade, and many shins, ankles, knees, fingers etc. thank trainer-Dale Portner.

The team views the second game from the hill.

Denise Snader shows that it takes alot of concentration just to catch the ball.

Staying just one step ahead of her defense. Julie Dayton takes off for goal.

Jeanne Nolte does the "Disco Kick"!!

Lacrosse Trainer, Dale Portner.

Celeste Rodriguez thinks if she stares hard enough the ball will score!

The Winning Form of Kathy Idelson.

The 1978-79 Gymnastics Team, coached by Ruth Budd, started an early season, with practice beginning in August. They worked steadily up until Spring Break, with one member contenuing until the National Tournament.

After a 4-6 regular season, the Gymnasts took fourth place in the VAIAW State Tournament, with Debi Kinzel and Kathy Idelson placing among the top individuals in several events. Idelson qualified for the AIAW, Southern Region II Tournament, where she placed eighth in floor exercise and sixteenth in all-around; she then went on to compete in the AIAW National Small-College Tournament, where she finished seventh in floor exercise and was named an All-American Gymnast.

Jean Powers demonstrates the splits on the balance beam.

Kim Furbee displays grace in every step of her performance.

Ann Miles does her routine under the spot lights.

Another skillful move by Jean Powers.

Only in its second season, the Lancer baseball team has come a long way from its previous 0-13 record to a 16-12 record in 1979. They had a tough schedule, with 12 double headers and a split-season. Some of the teams accomplishments include being ranked 9th in the nation with a .298 season batting average. John Crosby was ranked 3rd in the nation for stolen bases, with 35 stolen for 35 attempts. The biggest highlight of the season was defeating Hampden-Sydney twice, shutting them out 6-0 in April.

Coach Buddy Bolding looks forward to and even stronger team next year.

In the 1978-79 season, the Longwood Lancers Riding Team made monumental progress. Returning members from last year were: Sally Lowe, Julie Tracy, Rhonda Powell and Cathy Redman. New members included: Robyn Walker, Kathy Chase, Janet Young, and Kelly Kent. The team worked together under the leadership of their new head coach Mary Whitlock.

During first Semester the Lancers travelled to four shows and brought heme two reserve championships and numerous ribbons. Second semester started well with two new members Leslie Henry and Page Bartholf who replaced Sally Lowe and Julie Tracy. During the month of February the team participated in a clinic at U.V.A. with Charlie Weaver, which was followed by three more shows that season and regionals to which five members went.

In the future under the continued guidance of coach Mary Whitlock, the team is looking for new growth and improvement. As the team gains additional experience through participation they hope to eventually qualify for Nationals.

This will be the last you see of the Longwood Fencing Team, for awhile at least. The fencers have been asked to hang up their foils, after a successful season, among many, even after being commended by CHI.

After four consecutive state titles, the Lancer fencers were third in the 1979 state tournament. Anne-Marie Messier was 3rd in the state, and Melanie Harp was fourth. At regionals, Longwood placed fourth, narrowly missing an opportunity to go to Nationals. Both Anne-Marie Messier, and Melanie Harp, advanced to finals.

Although we won't be seeing any fencing at Longwood (at least no intercolligate fencing) the team will be well remembered as well as the coach, Miss Sally Bush. You've made Longwood Proud!

What is 53 feet tall and weighs 1937 pounds? No, it's not the Loch Ness Monster. It's the Lady Lancer Basketball team.

This year's team was shorter than in previous years. But with speed and determination, they used their skills to play some exciting games. Quite a few games ended in last second decisions in the Lancers favor.

With only one senior on the team, the young Lancers gained a lot of experience and should be strong next season. Their competion for 1978-79 was tough, and it should be a full season next year.

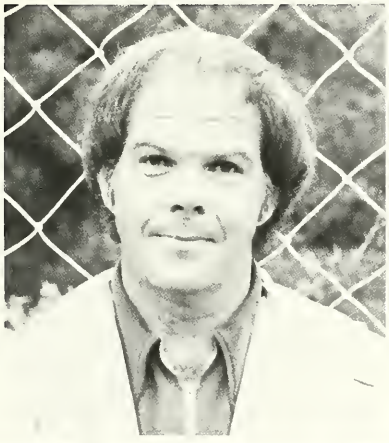
Penn works on his techniques.



Bud Adkins races for possession of the ball.

Goalie Penn Gorman and Kevin Bedsworth keep Longwood in the game.

Starting their second game of competition the men's soccer team of Longwood was a team of 25 men ready for action. Coach Dick Williamson and manager-trainer Sue Delong and Laura Bell worked hard to get their team into shape by their first game. Starting in August and continuing through November, the men practiced hard to become a working team. Tricaptains chosen were Sr. D. J. Lindsay, and Jrs. David Yerkes and Randy May.

In the King College tournament, Brian Cochran, David Yerkes, and David Komornik were selected to the all-tournament team. The same three were again chosen to the all-district team at the season's end In addition, David Yerkes captured the honor of playing in the All-Star game held at Williamsburg in December.

Jerry Gilleland tackles a U. of R. player for the ball.

Ken Gebbie gives Longwood an added kick.

Kevin Bedsworth defends Longwood against a U-SC player.

Captain D.J. Lindsay keeps the ball out of U. of R. reach.

At practice, the team gives the goalie a workout.

Teri Davis goes one on one in a penalty stroke situtation.

"Get out of my way I'm coming through, if you don't move I'll stomp on you!!"

Debi Kinzel, Jeanne Nolte and Mary King rush the goalie.

Many new, eager faces were seen on Barlow Field this year fighting for goals with a hockey stick. In fact the entire hockey team was young, with only 1 senior, 7 juniors, 7 sophomores and 13 freshmen. The hockey team had a hard year; but through this learning season they should be more experienced in their future years at Longwood.

The hockey team's offense was new, but aggressive, and the defense was experienced, and tough. The two components worked well together. Both the JV and Varsity team members learned much through this rebuilding season and should show improvement next season.

Coach Dee McDonough led the teams through wins . . . and losses, with encouragement and new knowledge, bringing out each players potential.

Head coach Dee McDonough and assistant coach Teri Prodehl discuss second half strategy with the team.

Joan Matson gets her pass off just in time to avoid W & M attach.

Longwood College expanded their men's sports program with the addition of a wrestling team in 1979.

In their first year in the NCAA, the grapplers were 2-10. Coached by Nelson Neil, the team consisted of eight freshmen and three sophomores.

Beginning in early November, the team worked on conditioning and moves. Inexperience was the team's major problem, since only five wrestlers had any previous experience. Yet the wrestlers made up for lack of experience by sheer determination; some of whom lost as much as 20 pounds to make their weight class.

The highlight of the season was the Washington and Lee University Tournament, where they met powerhouses, Virginia and North Carolina. Kurt Coffield and Ken Gebbie each placed third at the tournament.

Kurt Coffield went on to NCAA Eastern Regionals in Pennsylvania to face the top men for the East Coast.

The team progressively became better as they learned from their mistakes. With a few new faces coming in and starters for the past year, the wrestling team is looking forward to success next season.

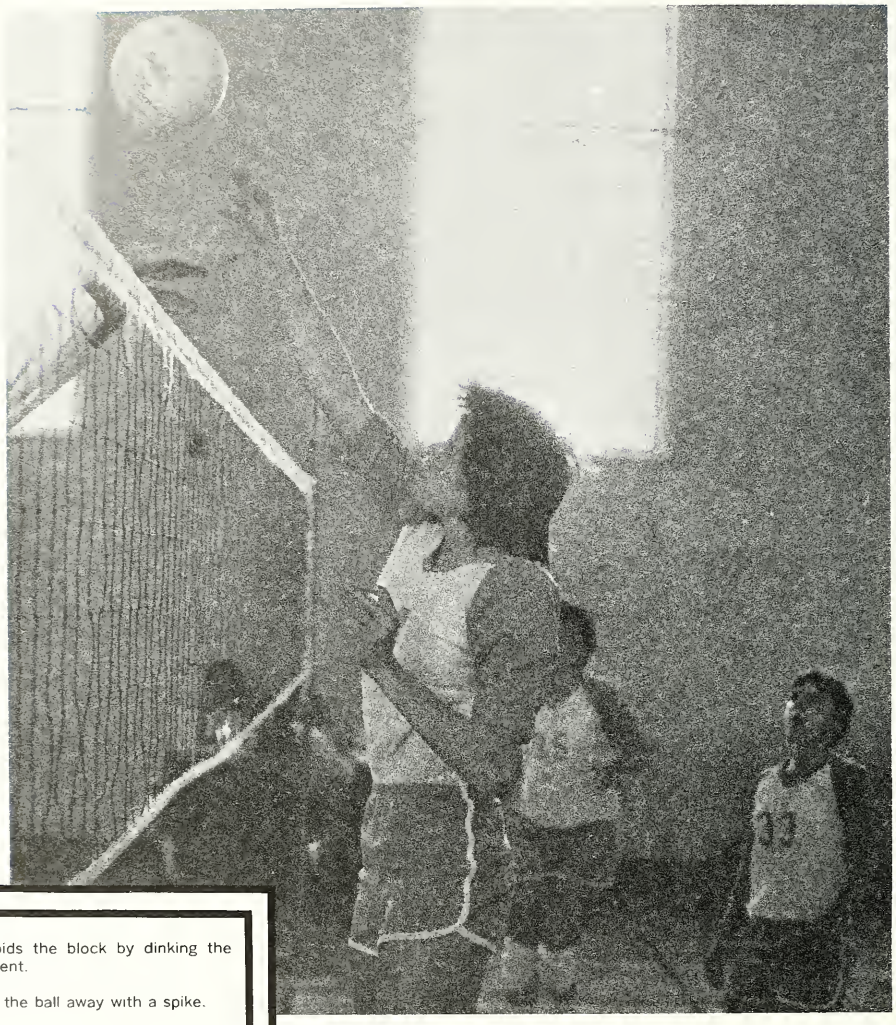
Who says you have to be tall to spike the ball!

Chris Ruppel starts off the play with a bump to Cindy Smith.

Despite the loss of Terry Johnson and other injuries throughout the entire season Longwood's Volleyball team experienced their most successful season ever! Yea team. Coach Callaway said, "The team has become known throughout the state; we're finally making a name for ourselves."

The key to their success lay in smart, aggressive play. The Lancer Volleyballers were out to win so they played offense instead of defense, this determination took them to states.



Robin Hungate avoids the block by dinking the ball over the opponent.

Cindy Thomas puts the ball away with a spike.

Terry Johnson SMASHES one over the net!

Meg Cook prepares her fingers for the ball!

Doing circuit drills really paid off for the volleyball team, as their record proved.

The lady Lancer golf team was 10-3 in the fall season and 8-0 in the spring season. Besides having a good season, the golfers gave coach Barbara Smith her 100th win at Longwood in this fall's Longwood Invitational Tournament. In addition to her 100th win, Dr. Smith was given the honor of Coach of the Year at this years Athletic Banquet. Congratulations on a great year golfers!

The Longwood Lancers Men's Golf Team coached by Dick Williamson had a rather low start to their season; up until the early part of April, the team was 0-5; however, the Lancers had a tremendous winning streak that saw them defeat 7 opponents in their last 5 matches to finish the season with a 7-5 record.

Golfers were led by sophomore Tim White who was a consistant low scorer.

and Doris Key gives a classic example of the forehand!

The Tennis Team proved once again to one of the finest teams in the State; despite having to contend with unfinished courts, which hindered their practicing.

Coached by Phyllis Harriss, the team was 5-3-1 in the fall and 2-4 in the spring. In the VITW state Tournament, Longwood placed sixth as a team and had 4 players advance to the finals: Mary Barrett (fourth place in Flight 3), Christi Lewis (fourth place in Flight 4); Margie Quarles (Flight 1); Nancy Leidenheimer (Flight 2).

Where have all the Archeres gone?? They've hung their bows up-everyone!! So ends yet another of Longwood's indevidual sports (fencing being another).

The team has, in the past, always kept a winning season on their record. They remained the undefeated state champions from 1974 through 1977. Last year the team took second in state. They also qualified for Nationals. This year they were even commended by CHI as a supportive action.

Despite all of theses good records, and reports; coach Neal and the archery team will no longer be seen shooting on Barlow field. We thank you all-we'll miss your talents.

Randy Johnson goes up for two, while Tom Alston screens out the opponent.

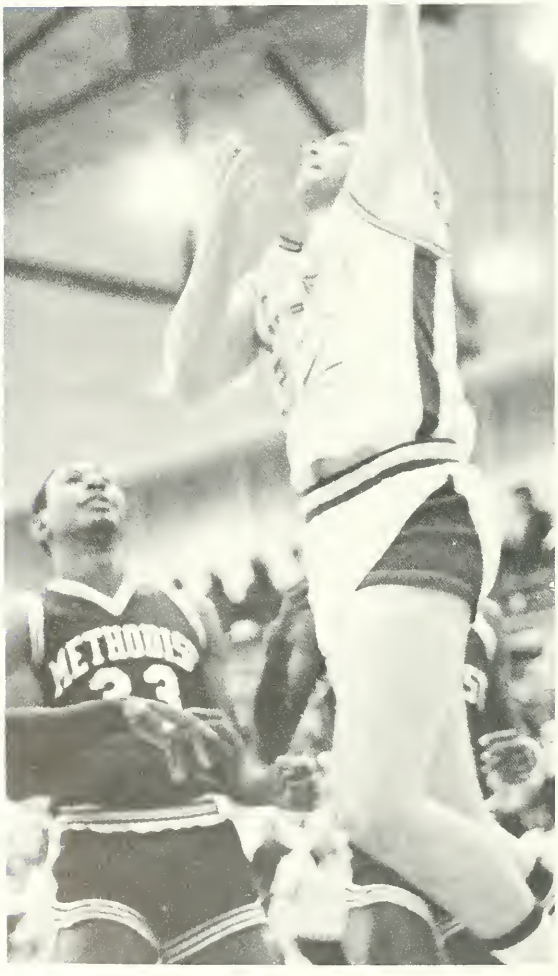
Hugh Murray blocks and "fouls" a layup attempt by Tom Alston during practice.

Entering their first season as an NCAA Division III basketball team, the Lancers faced an awesome task with 18 games on the road, including 4 tournaments. Coach Ron Bash took the team composed of 8 freshmen, 3 transfers, and only 3 returnees, to a 19-8 finish.

The Lancers emerged as the suprise of the South, concluding their first semester play with a 6-1 record, the best mark of any small college NCAA Division III team in the state. Longwood also ranked number 1 in the nation in fieldgoal percentage for Division III as determined by the NCAA for the period through February 3, 1979, and continued to be nationally ranked. Tom Alston and Kenny Ford were both nationally ranked in field goal percentage.

The team faced a major dissappointment when the Dixie Conference turned down their application. Longwood ended the school year considering going Division II in 1979-80.

With so much success in their first year in the NCAA, the future looks very bright for Lancer basketball.



With a short outside jumper, Kenny Ford puts in two.

Byron Bracey and Shack Leonard receive awards at Virginia Kiwanis Invitational Tournament.

Shack Leonard slips by opponent for an easy layup.

During the course of Longwood's history, its ideals and beliefs have been respected, praised, and loved by all who entered its doors. And perhaps the greatest recognition of that fact is portrayed in one specific symbol of the Longwood ideal. Longwood's Rotunda, designed by Virginia's Thomas Jefferson, is the focal point of Longwood's history.

The dome design includes the four most important aspects of college life: study and meditation, teaching, recreation, and rest. Also in the dome structure are portraits of four men whose impact was felt in the shaping of the college as we know it, and now retain a place in its past: Mr. Curry, Mr. Ruffner, Mr. Horace Mann, and Thomas Jefferson.

This then, is our Rotunda. It holds our pride, our love, our ideals, our traditions, our past . . . and perhaps even our future.
